The Interpretation of International Arbitration Agreements

The interpretation of international arbitration agreements is a complex and challenging task. The parties to an arbitration agreement may come from different legal backgrounds and have different expectations about the meaning of the agreement. Moreover, the agreement may be drafted in a language that is not the native language of either party.

In this chapter, we will discuss the different factors that courts and arbitral tribunals consider when interpreting international arbitration agreements. We will also provide guidance on how to draft arbitration agreements that are clear and unambiguous.

The Conduct of Arbitral Proceedings

The conduct of arbitral proceedings is governed by a set of rules and procedures that are designed to ensure that the proceedings are fair and efficient.

In this chapter, we will discuss the different stages of an arbitral proceeding, from the commencement of the proceedings to the issuance of the award. We will also provide guidance on how to conduct yourself in an arbitration proceeding.

The Enforcement of Arbitral Awards

Once an arbitral award has been issued, it is important to ensure that it is enforced. The enforcement of arbitral awards is governed by a number of international conventions and national laws.

In this chapter, we will discuss the different methods of enforcing arbitral awards. We will also provide guidance on how to challenge the enforcement of an arbitral award.

Appendix

The appendix contains a number of useful resources for practitioners of international arbitration law.

- A list of international arbitration institutions
- A list of national arbitration laws
- A list of international arbitration treaties
- A glossary of international arbitration terms
